AMERICAN COLUMNS GRIMLY MOVING TO THE TUNISIAN COAST

Armored Groups Slog Along Through Rain-Soaked Roads from Gafsa

LED BY GEN'L PATTON

Germans Make Repeated Assaults On the Russian Positions

(By International News Service)

American armored columns slogged ahead today along two rain-soaked roads from Gafsa toward the East Tunisian coast, grimly determined to split the Axis forces and bottle up the army of Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in the Mareth fortifications.

Led by audacious Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., new commander of American ground forces in North Africa, the advancing columns made steady progress toward Gabes and Sfax. One force pushing southeast was well beyond El Guettar, 12 miles from Gafsa, and another, supported by French infantry, was last reported near Sened station, 27 miles north-east of the captured base.

The southern column was only 70 miles from the coast.

A hundred and twenty-five miles to the south the German-Italian army deployed along the 60-mile Mareth line, nervously awaiting the imminent assault by the British Eighth Army. Possibility that the attack was about to begin was seen in the report, broadcast by the Algiers radio, that infantry detachments of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's army had made bayonet charges against enemy forward positions and forced a withdrawal.

Students of desert warfare recalled that the full moon will be over Tunisia in a few days, and that it is a season in which Montgomery likes to fight, for it makes possible 24-hour observation of enemy movements.

Driver of Car Didn't Know He Struck Man

The driver of an automobile which allegedly struck a man at Buckley and Spruce streets yesterday, told Justice of Peace Arthur P. Brady that he did not know that his car had struck anybody.

The injured man is Joseph Bytof, Richland Road, Bensalem Township. He was taken to the Harriman Hospital by John Lesneve, Newportville and Ford Roads, who told police that he saw the accident. Bytof is to return to the hospital for X-rays to determine the extent of his injuries.

Lesneve told police that at about 9:30 yesterday morning he saw a car operated by Harry Shofstall, Edgely, strike a man at Buckley and Spruce streets and continue on. On the information of Lesneve, Shofstall was later taken into custody and given a preliminary hearing and held in bail until a later date.

Bytof suffered an injury to the left shoulder.

Shofstall said he thought he had hit a bump in the road and did not know that he had struck a man.

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 20—Sellersville borough has filed a trespass action against Samuel L. Lesko, Nesquehoning, in the Court of Common Pleas here.

Attempting to recover from the defendant $177.25, the plaintiff charges that through negligence he fell asleep while driving through the Sellersville borough on State highway 309, north of where Temple ave. intersects North Main street, and swerved to the wrong side of the highway damaging and destroying a fire hydrant which had to be replaced by the borough at a cost of $177.25, the amount for which the suit is brought.

A trespass suit has been filed by the New Amsterdam Casualty Company, a corporation, against William Quintell, Jr., 127 North Ninth street, Quakertown. No statement of claim has yet been filed.

FARM LABOR SITUATION DISCUSSED BY GRANGE

Agricultural Group Hears County Agent William F. Greenawalt

SESSION AT NEWTOWN

NEWTOWN, Mar. 20—The farm labor situation was discussed by Bucks County Agricultural Agent William F. Greenawalt, Doylestown, when he appeared before the Middletown Grange at a meeting in Fellowship Hall of Newtown Presbyterian Church this week.

Mr. Greenawalt, who was introduced by Mrs. Leslie Kirk, lecturer of the Grange, who had charge of the program, said the government agencies have been meeting with a large number of difficulties in connection with the farm labor shortage situation. The greatest help, said Mr. Greenawalt, will come from what the farmers can do for themselves by cooperation.

Cooperation between the farmers and the school authorities, it was said, has been quite good, but if the farmers want to get the help of the children in school, they must see that they are provided with transportation.

The proposed work camp at George School, members of the Grange were informed, may solve the problems of some of the farmers in this vicinity.

Missionaries and Daughters Are Prisoners of "Japs"

PERKASIE, Mar. 20—The Rev. and Mrs. Charles Reinbrecht, who are missionaries in China, together with their two daughters are prisoners of war in occupied China, according to word received here.

Mrs. Reinbrecht is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Landes, of Souderton. The two have been in China for 14 years. Their daughters are aged 12 and 10.

The couple works under the direction of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Lutheran church.

Last June they wrote their last letter home, which was handled by the Red Cross and received in January. At that time they said that they had been under Japanese rule since 1937, and that they had been treated kindly by the Japanese. They were permitted to continue their missionary work, although they were subject to being watched by guards.

Since the actual outbreak of war with the United States, they had been more closely watched, and as late as December, the Red Cross supplied the Landes family with news that the couple was still all right.

Up to the declaration of war by the United States, the Japanese would have permitted the Reinbrechts to return home, but they elected to continue with their work there.

RAPIDLY EXPANDING BRAZILIAN AIR FORCE YEARNS FOR ACTION

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles dealing with activities of the Brazilian Airforce. John R. Henry, International News Service correspondent attached to the U. S. Atlantic Fleet is the first American newspaperman permitted to accompany the South American airman into action.—INS.)

By John R. Henry

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
A BRAZILIAN AIRBASE, Mar. 20—Delayed—(INS)—Brazil's two-year-old airforce is expanding today while it learns to fight a war.

Equipped largely with planes built in the United States, the Brazilian birdmen presently are assigned to only two major tasks. They sweep the skies above the South Atlantic in anti-submarine patrol, using two-engine bombers and Consolidated flying boats. With P-40 and P-36 fighter planes, they stand ready to defend Allied military bases in Brazil against enemy air attack.

American military authorities here agree that the Brazilian pilots are doing the most possible with the men and material available.

Many Read "Quiet Moment"

Editor Courier:
I feel that I should make some public acknowledgement of the many expressions of gratitude I have received for the daily "Quiet Moment" which appears in the Bristol Courier. I am deeply grateful for the many letters, telephone calls and personal expressions which have come to me as the author of the "Quiet Moments." It is gratifying to know that so many people take this moment each day to unite with others in a common prayer.

On behalf of the many people who look for this prayer each day I would like to commend you for the policy which you have adopted, of making this space available each day for a spiritual message. In a day when the message of Christ is so urgently needed, and when prayer is so essential, it is a blessing to have all such avenues—small as they may be—available for as many people as possible.

I personally appreciate the opportunity of participating in this daily presentation of the message of Christ.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES R. GAILEY.

WOMAN MISSIONARY, ONCE A PRISONER OF 'JAPS,' SPEAKS HERE

Miss Edna DeWitt Smith Appears Before The Travel Club

WAS REPATRIATED

Treated Fairly, But Life Under Japanese Rule Most Unpleasant

A prisoner of the Japanese for eight months and one of the many repatriated Americans who returned to the United States on the "Gripsholm" last summer, was the guest speaker before members of The Travel Club yesterday afternoon. She is Miss Edna DeWitt Smith, of Bloomfield, N. J., who for the past 21 years has served as a missionary to China under the American Baptist Mission.

Miss Smith, who presented to the club women information of her work which covered nearly a quarter century in the Orient, followed with intimate details of the perseverance and endurance of the Chinese people who have been holding out against the foe for nearly six years. She then told of life as a prisoner of war.

In an interview given a representative of The Bristol Courier prior to the program, Miss Smith told of being located at Swatow in the southern part of China. There under the direction of the American Baptist Mission she carried on work of religious education in the rural sections, serving the people of the villages and in the more scattered areas, dealing in particular with the women and children. It was on Pearl Harbor Day, in December of 1941, that Miss Smith and countless others were taken prisoners by the Japanese.

One thing she stresses is that contrary to ideas gained by many people, there are "some perfectly fine Japanese."

The suggestion was made during a talk by Lloyd Y. Crouthamel, chief of the company in a talk given this week at a banquet in which the two groups participated. Stressing the need of post-war planning, Mr. Crouthamel said he feels that an ambulance is needed in the community, suggesting that the money be raised through public subscription.

Donations totalling $250 were received at the affair.

New York Faces "Famine;" Meat at All-Time Low

New York—With the meat supply at an all-time low and shortages in other foodstuffs becoming critical, New York today faced the first genuine "famine" in its history.

Germans Claim 32 Allied Ships Sunk

Berlin—By Official German Wireless—The German High Command issued an announcement today claiming that 32 Allied ships totalling 240,000 tons have been sunk in a heavy U-boat battle against an Atlantic convoy.

(Editor's note: In frequent broadcasts since yesterday, the Germans have been claiming overwhelming success in a U-boat attack of major proportions. There has been no confirmation from any reliable source. The German High Command traditionally resorts to claims of major successes in U-boat warfare when there is no favorable news to report from the fighting fronts.)

Warns of Gravity of Pacific Situation

Somewhere in Australia—Vice Admiral Conrad Helfrich, commander of the Netherlands forces in this area, today urged immediate United Nations realization of the gravity of the Pacific situation.

Time heavily favors the Japanese, he declared, emphasizing that the Allied forces in holding the enemy on all fronts are not sufficiently equipped to check any major enemy expansion move, particularly if the Japs are allowed to consolidate their positions.

Helfrich cautioned that if a limited offensive, designed only to neutralize the increasingly powerful Japanese defense lines stretching from Rangoon to Truk, is not launched by the Allied forces in the very near future, there is strong possibility that an eventual United Nations all-out attack not only would be difficult but impossible.

Claim Important Position Captured by Axis in Tunisia

Rome—By Official Italian Wireless—The Italian High Command claimed today that Axis troops had captured an important position in northern Tunisia "after severe fighting lasting several days, in the course of which the enemy sustained heavy losses."

A total of 1,600 prisoners, 16 tanks, 30 guns and 70 motor lorries were captured, a communique declared.

Double Alert May Be The Experience of Pennsylvanians

HARRISBURG, Mar. 20—A double blackout, or two-fold daylight drill may be experienced by residents of Pennsylvania during the surprise air raid test planned between now and the first of April.

The executive director of the State Defense Council, Ralph Cooper Hutchison, has warned that unlike former tests, the next surprise drill may include two red alert periods. These periods are heralded by wailing blasts of whistles and sirens which stop all traffic, send pedestrians to shelters, and signalize total blackout.

A red alert will be followed by a blue, indicating that the enemy planes have gone but may return. The red signal may be repeated as if the raiders had returned, calling for a new blackout.

"We are going to try all combinations of the signals which may be necessary in an actual blitz," Hutchison said.

POLICE HOLD PROWLER SUSPECT FOR QUESTIONING

Frank Zuchero is Being Detained in Connection with Sixth Ward Scare

MADE SOME STATEMENTS

A man suspected of being the prowler who for the past several weeks has been annoying residents of Bristol and especially those of the sixth ward, is being held by police for questioning.

The man being detained is Frank Zuchero, who was taken into custody following conversations he had with a police officer.

Zuchero, say police, engaged in conversation with Patrolman Anthony Nichols on Mill street yesterday. Nichols saw Zuchero on the street and as he has been suspected of prowling, the officer engaged him in conversation. The officer asked Zuchero about his flashlight and then the conversation continued until the suspect had told a lot of things about himself.

Zuchero was placed under arrest and is being detained at police headquarters for further investigation.

Police have been shadowing Zuchero for some time with the hope of catching him in the act. They claim that Zuchero is mentally unbalanced.

Civilian Defense Workers To Be Compensated for Injuries

HARRISBURG, Mar. 20—(INS)—A program whereby civilian defense workers may be compensated for injuries received during air raids or in the performance of other official duties was announced today by the State Defense Council.

Claims for medical or compensation benefits should be filed with the County Defense Council chief of emergency welfare service, the Council said. Funds for payment of such benefits in case an officially enrolled volunteer is injured or killed while on official duty are administered by the U. S. Social Security Board, which has appointed the State Department of Public Assistance as its agent.

Schedules of benefits have not yet been announced, but the Council stated that they are expected to cover medical expenses, death benefits and compensation for loss of employment under certain conditions. The Council disclosed that several claims already have been filed, including one fatality.

Claims He Had Planned To Dispose of The Hog in Question

LANGHORNE, Mar. 20—Nathan Grodsky, Bristol butcher, was fined $50 and costs at a hearing held here yesterday afternoon, the charge against Grodsky being that of "having in his possession meat unfit for human consumption."

Jews To Celebrate The Feast of Lots

The heroic willingness to fight and die for freedom and justice will be commemorated by Jews all over the world when they celebrate Purim, the Feast of Lots, tomorrow.

The festival has its origin in the Biblical story of Esther. Haman, a wicked, scheming prime minister at the court of King Ahasuerus of Persia, desired royal homage from everybody. A Jew, Mordecai, refused this demand. Haman, angered by one person's action, sought to destroy the entire Jewish community of Persia. He cast "lots" (in Hebrew "Purim") to determine the day of destruction and it fell upon the 14th day of the month, Adar.

Mordecai, having learned of the plot, revealed it to his cousin, Esther, who was also Queen of Persia. Risking her own life, she informed Ahasuerus and pleaded for the life of her people. The king caused Haman to be hanged and sent forth an order that the Jews might arm themselves for defense, when they were attacked by the henchmen of Haman. The Jews resisted, in self-defense, and gained a noble victory. The day has remained in Jewish history an occasion for thanksgiving and rejoicing.

At the synagogue on the Eve of Purim, a scroll, containing this story, is read. During the centuries, this parchment scroll has been illustrated with many colored pictures and is one of the many beautiful historical Jewish ceremonial objects.

Purim is a joyful season. It is an occasion for plays and masquerades, gift-giving, and remembering the poor.

The festival, this year, recalling the ageless story of a people's deliverance from hatred and oppression, should bring hope and cheer to Jew and non-Jew alike. It should inspire us with a religious faith that announces its eternal message—Justice and Love shall always triumph over Violence and Evil.

REVIVAL OF SWAPPING

Rural America is about to see a revival of swapping. When the horses were turned out to pasture and tractors pulled into barnyards, swapping as an institution came upon civil days. Nothing could take the place of the incentive to swapping supplied by horses.

But when the OPA announced recently that there is nothing in rationing rules to prevent trading processed goods for something of equal point value, traders began to have mental flights.

Even housewives may catch the swapping fever and trade cans on the point system. Trading exchanges are a possibility. Instead of clubs, social and lodge organizations giving dinners or rummage sales they may work out an exchange shop charging a fee for swaps.

But if there is an upsurge of swapping and it runs true to traditional form, it will flare higher among farmers than city folk. Trading in calves, mules, pigs, horses, cows, machinery and even feed is in the making. It will not be surprising if John Doe and Richard Roe swap tractors or cultivators and Doe gives Roe a couple of hams and some spareribs to boot.

Occasionally one may hear about a swap in tires. Getting a tire to boot would be an epochal event. This would even top a trade in which one farmer got a barrel of gasoline to boot with a pair of shoes thrown in.

NEW PLANE ENGINE

Development of an aircraft engine so powerful that it promises to revolutionize not only the war in the air but the future of commercial aviation as well can now be revealed. It goes beyond the 1,500-2,000 horsepower cycle of today's best aircraft engines, although detailed records of its performance are still held as restricted information by the U. S. Navy Bureau of Aeronautics.

While the horsepower, construction, fuel consumption, mechanical improvements incorporated in the new engine and the speeds and rates of climb obtainable in new planes that can be built around this power plant are secrets, it is possible to reveal these salient facts:

It brings to reality 400-mile an hour flight.

The engine is no mere laboratory test model.

So far have engineering and construction of the engine progressed that it is now in the design of new planes ranking all the way from single-engine fighters to multiple-engine bombers and cargo planes.

AIR EXPRESS MOUNTS

Evidence continues to accumulate that air express is to reach undreamed-of volume after the war. Started in a minor way a few years ago, express shipments through the sky have registered increases every year.

When the Transcontinental and Western Air cast up its accounts for 1942, a net operating profit of more than $2,000,000 for the year was disclosed. Operating revenues likewise showed a sizeable increase over 1941, mounting to $16,000,000.

The company carried more passengers in 1942 than it did in 1941 with fewer planes, as the government took over some of its equipment. But almost one-half the increase in total operating revenues was attributable to a gain in express revenues. Express pound rate miles increased 163 per cent over 1941.

OTHER CHURCH NEWS

One of the most colorful of the younger American missionaries serving in Africa, will be the guest speaker at the Harriman Methodist Church, at tomorrow morning's service of worship. He is the Rev. Leslie Clifford Sarah, principal of the Springer Institute at Mulungwishi in the Belgian Congo. In this school, Dr. Sarah and his African staff educate hundreds of young men who go out into the villages and tribes of the Congo as pastors, teachers, and agricultural leaders of the people. In all of these villages they help develop Christian chapels and schools.

Dr. Sarah went to Africa in 1937 as principal of the Congo Institute at Kahene, which has more recently been developed into the larger Springer Institute. During this period he has traveled several thousands of miles by motor car through the Belgian Congo, and has a thorough knowledge of its various tribes and peoples. In addition to his knowledge of French—the government language of the Belgian Congo—Dr. Sarah has mastered the native language of the people. Serving with him is Mrs. Sarah. They have two children, one of whom was born in Africa.

Dr. and Mrs. Sarah and their children braved the dangers of the South Atlantic in the summer of 1942 to return to the United States for furlough. Within a year, they expect to return to Africa and resume their work at Mulungwishi.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Crammed from start to finish with exciting action "Seven Miles From Alcatraz" opened yesterday at the Grand with James Craig and Bontia Granville heading the featured cast.

Nearly all the happenings of this breathless picture take place on a rocky islet off the California coast, where Miss Granville, her father and two helpers run the lighthouse and weather station. That is, they run the place until a pair of convicts, escaping from Alcatraz, land there and take over while awaiting a favorable opportunity to continue their flight.

Constance Bennett, whose screen career has been highlighted with brilliant dramatic successes, is said to have one of her most spectacular roles in "Madame Spy," coming Sunday to the Grand Theatre.

BRISTOL THEATRE

"Commandos Strike at Dawn," which opens tomorrow at the Bristol Theatre, is known to Hollywood as the motion picture more eagerly awaited than any in recent years.

The forthcoming film is remarkable in that, during production it enlisted the enthusiastic support and co-operation of three great governments—the United States, Great Britain and Canada.

RITZ THEATRE

All that Lynn Bari needs to become a full-fledged member of the Hollywood Bicycling Club is—a bicycle. But, unfortunately, on the Coast, bikes are at present just not to be had. Lynn is starring with Henry Fonda and Don Ameche in "The Magnificent Dope," a witty comedy now at the Ritz Theatre.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Gailey)
Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

O Lord our God, thou knowest the weakness and cowardliness of our hearts. Thou knowest how much we care for and appreciate the opinion of men. Help us, we beseech thee, to care more for the opinion of God and to strive more to please thee than to please ourselves and others. Make us strong and courageous that we may never be afraid of our duty. Give us grace to act and speak at all times as we should. Let us never betray thee, O God, either by thought, word or deed. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Balance Victory Garden
Crops with Food Needs

Too much may be as serious an error in your Victory garden as too little. Indeed, too much of one crop is likely to be accompanied by a scarcity of another. To avoid waste—especially waste of your time and labor on which there are so many demands—your garden should be planned to produce the food your family needs in well-balanced profusion, but without wasteful surpluses.

That means reconciling production with consumption. Imagine you are a market gardener with one customer with whose buying habits you are familiar. Your problem is to have on hand during the harvest season whatever may be demanded of familiar things which your customer likes to cook together with a few additional items on which to exercise your salesmanship ability. Such, for example, as green leafy vegetables, to step up the family's intake of Vitamin A.

The over-all harvest season from a garden in the cold weather states will last about four months. It should supply all the fresh vegetables except potatoes needed by the family during July, August, and September, plus a considerable quantity in June and nearly all in October.

In the four months of harvest there are 120 days. How many vegetables will be served a day? No need to argue with your wife (or husband) about that. You know it will average three a day, excluding potatoes. A salad or a cooked vegetable at lunch, a salad and a cooked vegetable at dinner will be the rule. That gives us 360 vegetable dishes for the four months.

This provides only for fresh vegetables, to be eaten during harvest. Additional quantities must be grown for canning. Your winter needs of each item can be figured quite accurately, and your sowing should be planned so that the extra vegetables for putting up will be ready when you are, and can be picked and processed without delay at the height of their quality.

Having decided the number of dishes you will provide, what shall these dishes be? You have been eating with your family quite a while, and reflection should sug-

Plan Your Victory
Garden Yield

This table shows the length of garden row required to produce one serving for a family of four.

Snap Beans	1 ft.	Kohlrabi	2 ft.
Lima Beans	2 ft.	Leeks	2 ft.
Beets	1 ft.	Lettuce, Leaf	1 ft.
Broccoli	1 ft.	Spring Onions	1 ft.
Brussels	1 ft.	Parsley	2 ft.
Sprouts	1 ft.	Parsnips	3 ft.
Cabbage	2 ft.	Pas. Chard	3 ft.
Chicory	2 ft.	Peas	1 ft.
Carrots	1 1/2 ft.	New Zealand	1 1/2 ft.
Cauliflower	2 ft.	Radish	1 ft.
Celery	1 ft.	Rutabaga	2 ft.
Callalots	1 ft.	Salsify	2 ft.
Sweet Corn	4 ft.	Spinach	3 ft.
Cucumbers	2 ft.	Squash	3 ft.
Endive	1 ft.	Swiss Chard	3 ft.
Kale	1 ft.	Tomatoes	1 1/2 ft.
		Turnips	1 1/2 ft.

gest how often during the week they will welcome cooked greens, beets, carrots, or peas; how often they will enjoy a crisp bowl salad, and what other vegetables you should have on hand to vary the monotonous and provide that something different which is the indispensable ingredient of an enjoyable diet.

In 120 days, there are 17 full weeks. For one family serving a week you will have to provide seventeen dishes. Two servings a week will call for 34 dishes. Now add the extra production which will be needed for each item for canning, and you have your garden production schedule.

Then take the table which accompanies this article and figure out how many feet of each crop your garden rows should grow. The table gives the number of feet required for one serving to a family of four. Multiply this by the servings required of each crop and you have a reasonably accurate program for production without waste. Don't try to be too exact. Gardening requires broad tolerances. The measurements given in the table are for average soil, and may be too liberal, or too small for your garden. But they are a guide to help you plan, and a careful plan will insure that serious waste of time and labor will be avoided, and provide a well-balanced selection of appetizing foods always on hand from which your household manager may choose.

NEW CLEANING METHOD

MOBILE, Ala. (INS)—Something new in street cleaning methods is being planned in Mobile by city commissioner Robin C. Herndon.

"We will keep our city streets clean," Commissioner Herndon declared, "and will be using no gasoline and little rubber in the process."

It will also make possible round-the-clock bombing—an important factor with the Allied forces holding overwhelming air superiority.

There was a lull in the air warfare over Europe and England, but hundreds of planes fought continuous battles on the Russian front where the Soviet and German armies were locked in bitter struggles.

The Germans made repeated assaults on Russian positions in the Donets basin and on one sector drove the defenders from two towns. Soviet dispatches said the enemy was using men and equipment recklessly and suffering heavy losses.

Woman Missionary, Once Prisoner of 'Japs,' Speaks Here

"The evils are with the military system," she added, as she mentioned how kindly many of the Japanese were toward the prisoners. "But of course it is not at all pleasant living under Japanese rule."

After being taken prisoners a group of Americans in that area were kept in one house for 10 days. Then they were permitted to return to their homes, but under Japanese guard. "Of course the military police were likely to come into the houses at any time to check things, but otherwise we were not molested," commented Miss Smith. They were provided with food by good Chinese friends, and this augmented their surplus supplies.

In the middle of April they were forced out of Swatow, and taken on a freighter to Shanghai. Fifty-two Americans and British, mostly missionaries, and including diplomatic representatives, were crowded into the hold of the vessel. "The food was abominable on that trip," said the missionary, "but we were well treated otherwise."

Once in Shanghai the prisoners were placed in care of The American Association, made up of a group of American business men located in China. Members of this association, in watching over the prisoners, were responsible to the Swiss government, which in turn was responsible to the Japanese government. "We were free to come and go throughout the international concessions of Shanghai, but were not permitted to visit in the Chinese or Japanese districts," Miss Smith informed.

"Although we had sufficient food while in Shanghai it was very distressing to see the suffering on the part of the Chinese due to lack of food. Food was a problem for them. It was difficult to secure, and prices were exorbitant. We often saw lifeless bodies in the street, people who had died during the night because of starvation. When daytime arrived the bodies were removed, the Shanghai Municipal Council arranging for such."

Miss Smith returned to the United States on the 25th of last August, having been released at the end of July for repatriation.

A cousin of Earl H. Tomb, Bath Road, she is a guest for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Tomb.

When she appeared before the club women yesterday the missionary, who is slight of build, being just one inch over five feet and weighing 115 pounds, wore a costume of blue and black. The graying brunette, who has given so many years of her life to the people of China, because of her interest in her work and her manner of presentation of her experiences ably held the attention of her listeners as she told of affairs in the Orient.

She was introduced by Mrs. Tomb. The presiding officer was Mrs. E. Linton Martin, president. Mrs. Martin announced a meeting of the program committee to be held at the residence of Mrs. Harry Neher, on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The annual meeting will take place on April 2nd, at which time chairmen of committees will report. Named as members of the auditing committee are: Mrs. Thomas G. Hawkes, Mrs. Theodore B. Megarage and Mrs. Howard R. Focht.

Miss Shirley Peet favored with two piano solos, "To Spring" (Grieg), and a waltz by Levitsky.

Farm Labor Situation Discussed By Grange

next summer. In getting farm boys deferred from military service, said Mr. Greenwalt, the farmers must take the necessary steps on time and not wait until the boys have been called for service.

Mrs. Kirk introduced Herman Heston, master of the Grange, who said that the anniversary meetings of this Grange mean to him the beginning of a new year for the Grange and the start of spring. Continuing, Mr. Heston said the natural urge to grow something is so strong among the Middletown farmers that they will plant and raise good crops in spite of the apparent difficulties. Mr. Heston announced the next meeting of the Grange will be held in the Memorial House, Langhorne, on March 31st.

Other numbers on the program included readings by Miss Marie Kirk and Miss Ruth Ann Lauble; a vocal solo by William Lauble, who was accompanied on the piano by Ruth Ann Lauble; several trumpet solos and a short talk by the Rev. John Mertz, pastor of Newtown Presbyterian Church.

Prior to the program a "pot luck" supper was served members and guests.

Requirements for the pilots include a high school education and a satisfactory mark on an entrance examination. The course of instruction ordinarily continues for three years but has been shortened because of the war. After graduation, the neophyte fliers have the rank of "Aspirantes," and must serve for six months as apprentice fliers before they are commissioned as lieutenants.

A U. S. Army "Jeep" transported this correspondent to the squadron headquarters which was to be my second home for the next few days to follow. Capt. R. F. Potts, 2581 W. 26th Lane, Miami, Fla., went along to explain in Portuguese the purpose of my visit, then left me to my own devices to understand and be understood.

Major Aviator Ernani P. Hardman, commanding officer of this unit, introduced me to Bulhões Francisco, an Aspirante, who was to show the way over the field.

"We soon have been airforce," he said, pointing to a number of new stucco, cream-colored barracks being built by half-stripped laborers.

Officers now live in a sprawling one-story dormitory that belonged to the Italian Lati air line before the war. The place was confiscated along with the Italian hangar which serves as a repair shop for planes and also houses enlisted men.

The name "Lati" has been stricken from the hangar, and in its place is written, "Capt. Cezar." Cezar was the first Brazilian flier killed in action.

The nicely laid out officers' quarters is open-aided and comfortable. Photographs of Mussolini were jerked off the walls, and the dining room now is adorned with a picture of President Getulio Vargas, a calendar and a clock.

In one end of the dining hall is a lounge. The pilots gather there in leisure hours to read or listen to a radio-phonograph machine. American magazines and records are scattered on the tables along with the native publications and musical pieces.

The first evening I was present, the mess boys served up a supper of steak, fish and Brazilian vegetables, fruits and the familiar strong, black coffee.

One of the Aspirantes, Sebastiao Loureiro, subsequently announced he had been "checked out" for flying a P-40, and according to custom, would produce a "wash" for the mess. We drank champagne in celebration of his solo in the swift U. S.-made pursuit plane.

Those who did not don civilian clothes for the evening as these airmen are permitted to do, and drive into a nearby village, retired early.

Before bedtime, the officers sat about the lounge discussing their personal ambitions. Many want to be sent to Africa. They want to fly their planes against the German Luftwaffe.

Major Hardman, commenting on the possibility, said it would be several months before Brazil's airmen are prepared to undertake this type of battle. "We need more men, more planes," he said.

The Brazilian fliers, meanwhile, have had their share of action in this vicinity, accounting for Axis submarines that prowled the South Atlantic. There were two men in each of the spacious rooms of this officers' quarters, sleeping in the same beds that less than a year ago were comfortably occupied by guests of the Italian airline.

As the moon chimed itself into the cloudy night, you could look from your window upon the flat landing field, and see the trim silhouettes of bombers and P-40's with which this squadron is fighting the war.

Major Hardman had promised to take me along on his next flight across the hunting grounds of Axis submarines.

Tomorrow—A land-based Brazilian bomber goes to battle.
